

- Reliability-driven deployment optimization for automotive control system.
- The system is modeled by SysML internal block diagrams and activity diagrams.
- SysML activity diagrams are captured formally in a proposed calculus.
- We translate the model into PRISM language.
- The soundness of the proposed framework is proved.